Independent / Supplementary Prescribing Standard Programme

Postgraduate Certificate

Institutional credit

Why study this programme?

There is a high and rising demand for a range of health professionals to qualify as non-medical prescribers. This is a part-time, distance learning programme for community and primary care pharmacists, nurses and midwives, physiotherapists, podiatrists, advanced practitioner paramedics and therapeutic radiographers (who qualify as independent prescribers) and diagnostic radiographers and dietitians (who qualify as supplementary prescribers). Choose your programme length: we can offer you eight months or a full year of study for the same qualification.

Nine study days at the university cover communication and diagnostic skills, the legal, policy, professional and ethical aspects of prescribing, pharmacology, and patient assessment and monitoring. Students also spend 90 hours shadowing prescribers in clinical practice working in their chosen area.

We offer the programme as a postgraduate certificate in either:

- Independent and Supplementary Prescribing for pharmacists, nurses and midwives, physiotherapists, podiatrists, advanced practitioner paramedics and therapeutic radiographers
- Supplementary Prescribing for diagnostic radiographers and dietitians

We also offer nurses the option to undertake the Short Course in Independent and Supplementary Prescribing and gain 45 credits at level 6.

You can take the programme as a standalone postgraduate certificate in Independent/Supplementary Prescribing, or as a pathway into the first or second stage of the MSc Medicines Optimisation (please see the pathway diagram).

Are you planning to apply but need some assistance with numeracy? Would you like an introduction to pharmacology first? Or do you want learn some basic clinical skills in advance? We have three Preparing for Prescribing (P4P) short courses available. You can develop your numeracy, pharmacology and clinical skills before starting the main Independent / Supplementary Prescribing Programme.

Why study with us?

The Medway School of Pharmacy is a unique collaboration between the University of Greenwich and the University of Kent.

The school is located at the heart of a multi-university campus development at Chatham Maritime in Medway, Kent.

Investment in extensive new laboratories and research facilities has seen the campus develop into a major higher education centre.

The Medway School of Pharmacy has been developing its postgraduate provision since 2004 and can now announce a new Centre for Postgraduate, Workplace and Community Learning incorporating the current portfolio of postgraduate programmes and introducing work-based qualifications and community-centred learning courses.

The postgraduate team is a mix of academic tutors and healthcare professionals active in clinical practice, enabling students to learn from practising professionals as well as from an excellent academic team.

What will you study?

The programmes consist of 4 courses (modules)

PGCert Independent/Supplementary Prescribing

All four courses are compulsory

- Non-medical Prescribing in Context (15 credits)
- Safe and Effective Prescribing (15 credits)
- Consultation and Decision Making (15 credits)
- Putting Prescribing into Practice (15 credits)

Independent and Supplementary Prescribing for Nurses – Level 6

All four courses are compulsory

- Background to Non-Medical Prescribing (10 credits)

Career Opportunities

There is high and rising demand for both non-medical prescribing nurse practitioners and pharmacists in GP surgeries or other primary care settings. There are also enhanced career opportunities for radiographers, physiotherapists, podiatrists, advanced practitioner paramedics and dietitians with the prescribing qualification.

Teaching and assessment

The programme is a distance learning programme and includes a total of nine study days at the university. Students must also spend 12 days in clinical practice, overseen by the Designated Medical Practitioner (DMP).

Students are assessed through written assignments (case study analysis, legislative essay, evidence-based assignment), exams (numeracy and pharmacology), a practical assessment of prescribing practice (PAPP), a narrative based on portfolio entries, and attendance for a period of learning in practice.
